

Business Communication Today

U.S. ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS

BUILDING STRONG.

Web

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Savannah District website features various links to help businesses navigate the world of government contracts. At www.sas.usace.army.mil, look for “Contracting Opportunities” and “Small Business Program” in the header. Both links provide valuable information for all businesses—big to small—concerning contracting with the Corps.

Social Media

Recognizing the need to use a variety of communication methods to reach as many people as possible, the district posts contracting opportunities as part of its social media program. Find us on Twitter, Facebook, YouTube and Flickr with messages tailored to contractors like you. You can find links to our social media accounts below.

Twitter

Much like sending a text message, Twitter enables its users to send and read messages known as tweets. These are text-based posts of up to 140 characters, shown on the profile page and delivered to subscribers, or followers.

The micro-blogging site claims more than 200 million users, while independent watchers give an estimate of 300 million. The district uses Twitter to promote contracting opportunities, news releases, regulatory announcements, and job openings. You don't need an account to see information on Twitter.

Facebook

On our Facebook page, you will find news, photos and videos of the Savannah District in action along with information on contracting opportunities, news releases, regulatory announcements, and job openings. Anyone can view our information, but you must have an account to leave comments.

YouTube

Our YouTube channel features videos about the people and projects associated with the Savannah District. There is no membership required.

Flickr

This photo-sharing site doesn't require an account for you to view or download high-resolution pictures of Corps projects.
